CURRENT POSITION

Research Associate in Latin Linguistics

2026 – ongoing

Department of Digital Humanities, King's College London (London, United Kingdom)

Research Assistant in Latin Linguistics in the Department of Digital Humanities, working on the ERC-selected project Computational Corpus Annotation for Quantitative Analysis of Latin Lexical Semantics, led by Dr Barbara McGillivray.

EDUCATION

PhD in Digital Humanities

2022 – 2026

King's College London, London, United Kingdom

* Project title: A Comparative Study on Ancient Greek and Latin Preverbed Motion Verbs: The Creation of PrevNet as an Expandable Online Resource for Preverbs and Prevervation

* Supervisors: Dr Barbara McGillivray, Dr Andrea Ballatore, Prof Stephen Colvin (UCL)

* Visiting PhD Student in Computational Linguistics and Linked Open Data

2025

Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore, Milan, Italy

Project: Enhancing the REMOVE Dataset with Linked Open Data

Supervisor: Prof Marco Passarotti

* Visiting PhD Student in Linguistics

2024–2025

University of Palermo, Palermo, Italy

Project: Boundary Crossing in Ancient Greek and Latin

Supervisor: Prof Annamaria Bartolotta

Master of Arts in Theoretical and Applied Linguistics

2019 – 2021

University of Pavia, Pavia, Italy

LEADERSHIP AND INVOLVEMENT

Group Lead – King’s Linguistics Network

June 2026 – ongoing

King’s College London

- * The King’s Linguistics Network (KLN) is a cross-faculty network dedicated to language-related research from a linguistic perspective at King’s College London. The network brings together researchers working on linguistics from a wide range of theoretical, empirical, and interdisciplinary perspectives. Linguistics-related research at King’s spans multiple faculties and disciplines, and KLN provides a shared forum for intellectual exchange, collaboration, and visibility for this work across the university. The network organises informal meetings, seminars, thematic discussions, conferences, and occasional training events.

CLARIN Trainer

June 2026 – ongoing

CLARIN-UK

- * The CLARIN Trainers’ Network is a community of experts and trainers with a broad range of knowledge in many areas relevant to CLARIN. The trainers are affiliated with CLARIN centres and national consortia, and they deliver training activities in the form of online webinars and in-person workshops at international summer schools, conferences, COST Actions, in disciplines and communities, such as linguistics, digital humanities, language technologies and social sciences.
